

Marine Science Educator/Deckhand Aboard 80' Schooner SoundWaters

SoundWaters, a nonprofit education organization based in Stamford, CT, is accepting applications for Marine Science Educator/Deckhand aboard the 80' Schooner SoundWaters for the 2018 sailing season.

SoundWaters, founded in 1989, is the premiere environmental education organization focused on the protection of Long Island Sound and its watershed. SoundWaters works in partnership with individuals, schools, communities, businesses, civic organizations, and other environmental and educational organizations to develop experiences that foster a sense of responsibility and encourage actions that ensure the sustainable future of the Long Island Sound ecosystem.

The Schooner STEM program is designed for local schools, summer camps and community organizations. The crew is responsible for delivery of three-hour science programs for students ranging from second grade through college age and assisting in sail handling during educational programs. STEM learning stations include water quality monitoring, human impact, plankton, marine animals, and navigation. Educators deliver information using an interactive pedagogy. On weekends and throughout the summer the schooner offers public sails, and private charters, and crew members are responsible for passenger safety, sail handling, and guest relations. Throughout the season the crew engages in maintenance of SoundWaters. All crew live aboard.
